Hong Kong Broadband Adopts WebDrive Technology

SRT's WebDrive Powers HKBN Services Solution

Annapolis, MD – October 18, 2005 – South River Technologies (SRT) announced today that Hong Kong Broadband Network (HKBN) has adopted the WebDrive product to allow its users to securely access remote files through a virtual hard drive.

Macroview, a systems integrator providing technology solutions to ISP's, performed extensive industry research to find virtual drive software for ISP customer HKBN. Stability and performance were the major requirements, as well as the ability to provide HKBN with a fully branded solution. With a fully developed solution from Macroview, HKBN localized WebDrive. The installation allows users to select between Chinese Mandarin and English. HKBN has recently rolled the solution out to its customers as a secure file access and storage service.

“The WebDrive application is the core of the solution that we were able to present to our customer. WebDrive offers the high performance and stability that we require,” says Eric Lo, Senior Manager of Business Development for Macroview. “The ability to access remote servers through a virtual drive is a feature that has proven highly useful. We could not find all of these capabilities in any other product.”
